High Line gets free Wi-Fi

New Yorkers can now stay online at the High Line.

Starting Tuesday, a popular portion of the elevated Manhattan park will have AT&T Wi-Fi service.

No matter their cell phone carrier, High Line visitors will be able to connect between 14th and 16th streets.

"We want everyone who comes to the High Line to have an experience that is meaningful," Joshua David, co-founder and president of Friends of the High Line said in a statement.

"By adding this new Wi-Fi service to our wide range of programs and amenities, we have one more way of ensuring that our visitors get a fresh perspective on New York City when they come to the High Line," David said.

Other outdoor areas in Manhattan with free Wi-Fi from AT&T include: Battery Park, parts of Central Park, Foley Square, Holcome Rucker Park, Marcus Garvey Park, Thomas Jefferson Park and Tompkins Square Park. ANNA SANDERS

Fashion stars and fresh from college

Stylish. Two FIT grads and a student have found followings on their fashion blogs.

There's no blogging major at the Fashion Institute of Technology, but that's how some of its current and former students are building their careers.

Freddy Rodriguez, who graduated on Thursday, started his blog BluePerk. Tumblr.com three years ago after his first year of college. At first, Rodriguez's blog was just a fun way for him to show off his stylish outfits, but in February 2013, he saw his readership explode after Tumblr featured him as a Fashion Week blogger.

Rodriguez, 22, started making money from the blog one year ago. "I had some friends doing it full time and realized that

Now, Rodriguez makes an income from writing sponsored blog posts and social media projects that are comparable to that of a fashion assistant. His savings will allow him to move to Europe, where he will attempt to expand his brand.

Tumblr featured Rodriguez again last fall as one of 20 Fashion Week "all-star" bloggers, with two fellow FIT students, Nicole Loher and Ryan Charchian.

Loher, who also graduated on Thursday, started NicoleLoher.com in high school. "I had one of the first fashion Tumblrs and the people at headquarters took note," she said. Just as Loher was starting college in 2010, Tumblr sent her to Fashion Week as an editor.

Soon, Loher, 21, realized her blog was more than a hobby. "After my first year of college, I realized it was a career choice for some and that it was profitable," she said. Today, Loher works at Nanette Lepore in social media and branding; she also earns money from her blog.

Cops to carry heroin antidote

Facing a resurgence in heroin overdoses and use, city and state officials are arming NYPD cops with a lifesaving opioid antidote.

reverse the effects of an opioid overdose.

"You cannot prosecute your way out of a drug epidemic," Attorney General Eric Schneiderman said on Tuesday.

"You cannot arrest your way out of it either," NYPD Commissioner Bill Bratton added.

Citywide, heroin-related overdose deaths increased 84 percent between 2010 and 2012 after four years of decline, Schneiderman said. Officials attributed the increase to cheaper and stronger heroin on the market.

Schneiderman added that the stigma once attached to the drug seems to have vanished.

Crime. Deadly night of shootings across Manhattan, Brooklyn

At least six shootings around the city within the span of a few hours before dawn Tuesday left two people dead and six injured.

Police said the spate of shootings began at around 10 p.m. Monday night after a party in Canarsie, Brooklyn erupted in gunfire.

An 18-year-old woman was shot in the arm and a 24-year-old man was shot in the back at the party East 96th Street. Another woman, 18, had her leg grazed by a bullet nearby.

Police are still investigating the incident.

Two other shootings in the borough were deadly.

One 20-year-old was shot and killed at 2:20 a.m. in Sunset Park. The victim was rushed to Lutheran Medical Center where he was declared dead.

About an hour later, police said an 18-year-old male attempted to carjack a driver in East New York at around 3:15 a.m.

The driver, reportedly a retired NYPD cop, shot one of the two males suspected in the attempted holdup, fatally wounding the teen — identified as Manuel Ocampo — after shooting him in the head. The second suspect was taken into custody.

Across the East River, Manhattan police also responded to three separate but non-fatal shootings.

One man was shot in the leg at 2 a.m. while he walked on West 126th Street in Harlem. A second shooting at 2:15 a.m. left another man in Morning-side Heights with a gunshot wound to his thigh.

The final incident occurred at around 3:35 a.m. along West 204th Street in Inwood, where police said one Hispanic male shot a 25-year-old male in a suspected robbery attempt.

The victim is expected to recover.

Three riders hurt in two subway stabbings

Three riders were hurt in two stabbings on subway trains in Manhattan and Brooklyn early Tuesday, police said.

In the first incident, a 30-year-old man was stabbed in the head and stomach during a robbery on a southbound Q train around 2:30 a.m., police said. Cops said two suspects boarded the train at the Atlantic Avenue station. The men demanded money from the rider. Police said that he refused and was stabbed by the suspects, who fled the train at the Prospect Park station.

Hospital. In the second incident an hour later, two teens were riding a downtown 4 train in East Harlem when they were stabbed, police said. Around 3:40 a.m., two 18-year-old men were slashed in the face near the Lexington Avenue-116th Street station, police said. One of the victims was also slashed in the arm.

They were taken to St. Luke's and Harlem Hospital in stable condition. Both investigations are ongoing, police said. ANNA SANDERS

Recounting that visit in a 140-page manifesto he sent to friends and relatives shortly before the shooting began, Rodger said that if the seven deputies at his door had searched his room, they would have found the firearms he had hidden there and denied him the chance to carry out his violent plans.

whether police could have done more to prevent it.

Rodger's mother asked deputies on April 30 to check on him at his apartment in the town of Isla Vista, near UCSB, after she saw videos he had posted on the Internet that she found disturbing.

Santa Barbara County Sheriff Bill Brown has said that deputies found Rodger to be polite and courteous during the encounter and that he did not appear to meet the criteria to be held on mental health grounds.

On Monday, sheriff's spokeswoman Kelly Hoover declined to discuss that visit in greater detail, pending an internal investigation, but said that deputies in general were barred from entering a residence without a warrant. REUTERS

Obama plans two-year pullout in Afghanistan

President Barack Obama said 2014 will be "pivotal" for U.S. involvement in Afghanistan as he announced plans to cut the American military presence to almost zero over the next two years.

As the U.S. combat role in Afghanistan ends this year, U.S. forces there will be reduced to 9,800 troops, enough to help train

Afghan forces and conduct counterterrorism operations, he said. In 2015, that deployment will be cut in half and by the end of 2016 the U.S. will be down to only enough troops for security for the American Embassy. BLOOMBERG

Rebels. Moscow says the rebellion is purely local and it has no control over the fighters.

Ukrainian aircraft and paratroopers killed more than 50 pro-Russian rebels in an assault that raged into a second day on Tuesday after a newly elected president vowed to crush the revolt in the east once and for all.

Malaysia's government and British satellite firm Inmarsat on Tuesday released data used to determine the path of missing Malaysia Airlines Flight MH370, responding to a clamor from passengers' relatives for greater transparency.

The data from satellite communications with the plane, which runs to 47 pages in a report prepared by Inmarsat, features hourly "handshakes" — or network log-on confirmations — after the aircraft disappeared from civilian radar screens on March 8.

Aurora shooting. Supreme Court rejects appeal over reporter source

The U.S. Supreme Court on Tuesday declined to hear an appeal by a man facing trial for a high-profile mass shooting at a Colorado movie theater in 2012 over his lawyers' attempt to force a Fox News reporter to testify.

The court's refusal to hear James Holmes' appeal leaves intact a December 2013 New York Court of Appeals ruling that said reporter Jana Winter did not have to disclose details about her sources.

Holmes' lawyers wanted Winter's testimony concerning her reporting on the shooting at a theater in Aurora, Colorado, in which 12 people were killed.

The attorneys say the information disclosed to Winter by law enforcement officials about material Holmes wrote in a notebook jeopardized their client's chances of getting a fair trial. A local judge had earlier issued a

Honor killing. Woman stoned to death by her family in Pakistan

Approximately 1,000 Pakistani women are killed every year by their families in honor killings, according to Pakistani rights group the Aurat Foundation. / GETTY IMAGES

A 25-year-old woman was stoned to death by her family outside one of Pakistan's top courts on Tuesday in a so-called "honor" killing for marrying the man she loved, police said.

Farzana Iqbal was waiting for the High Court in the eastern city of Lahore to open when a group of around one dozen men began attacking her with bricks, said Umer Cheema, a senior police officer.

Her father, two brothers and former fiancé were among the attackers, he said. Iqbal suffered severe head injuries and was pronounced dead at a hospital, police said.

All the suspects except her father escaped. He admitted killing his daughter, Cheema said, and explained it was a matter of honor. Many Pakistani families think a woman marrying her own choice of man brings dishonor on the family.

Iqbal had been engaged to her cousin but married another man, Cheema said. Her family registered a kidnapping case against him, but Iqbal had come to court to argue that she had married of her own free will, he said. REUTERS

2009 lawsuit

US court rules for Secret Service agents in protest case

The U.S. Supreme Court on Tuesday ruled that two Secret Service agents cannot be sued for allegedly treating protesters gathered in support of former President George W. Bush more favorably than protesters critical of him.

The court ruled on a 9-0 vote in favor of agents Tim Wood and Rob Savage, who were backed by the administration of President Barack Obama. The agents appealed a lower court ruling that allowed the lawsuit against them to move forward.

The case concerns an incident that took place on Oct. 14, 2004, when Bush, then president, was staying at the Jacksonville Inn in Jacksonville, Oregon.

When the president decided to eat on an outdoor patio, the Secret Service agents decided to move anti-Bush protesters that had gathered outside the inn. After the move, the anti-Bush protesters were further from the president than some pro-Bush demonstrators also gathered near the inn.

Seven of the anti-Bush protesters filed a lawsuit in 2009 claiming that the agents violated the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution's ban on viewpoint discrimination by treating the two groups differently and effectively suppressing their free speech rights. REUTERS

George W. Bush undergoes partial knee replacement

Former President George W. Bush underwent successful surgery for a partial knee replacement, a spokesman said on Tuesday.

Bush's outpatient procedure took place on Saturday in Chicago.

"He was up walking around just a couple hours after the procedure and was even able to go up and down a flight of stairs," said Bush spokesman Freddy Ford.

Bush, 67, a mountain biker and golfer, returned to Dallas on Monday "where he is recovering quickly at home," Ford said.

How do you spell ‘winner?’

Busy bees. Indian-American children prove to be whizzes in spelling competitions.

No one knows who will win the Scripps National Spelling Bee in Maryland this week, but if past performance is anything to go by, odds are an Indian-American youngster will walk away with the trophy.

Children of Indian origin have had a stunning run in the nationally televised contest, nailing words such as “guerdon,” “stromuhr” and “gu-etapens” to win 10 times in the last 15 years.

Last year's winner, New York middle-schooler Arvind Mahankali, was the sixth Indian-American in a row to take the title and a $30,000 scholarship. Indian-Americans swept the Top 3 spots in 2013, the same as the year before.

Of the 281 whizzes, ages 8 to 15, who will gather on Wednesday and Thursday at a hotel in Oxon Hill, Maryland, almost a quarter have names pointing to South Asian origins.

Indian-Americans make up only about 1 percent of the U.S. population, but will punch well above their weight at the National Spelling Bee.

Their rise as the rock stars of the all-American spelling contest comes from a simple formula: minor league systems, a family focus on education and hard work, Bee watchers say. REUTERS

Bee feeder

Another feeder is the for-profit South Asian Spelling Bee, which draws about 1,500 contestants in a dozen U.S. cities and has a national title. Founder Rahul Walia said some parents believed his contest was tougher than the National Spelling Bee.

- The winning streak also is seen as a result of the close-knit Indian American families' emphasis on academic performance and success in the U.S.
- A Pew Research Center analysis shows that almost 40 percent of Indian-Americans over 25 have advanced degrees, four times the overall U.S. level.

Quoted

“I don't think there's any secret or anything innate in Indian kids winning spelling bees. I don't think there's a spelling gene.”

Nupur Lala, who started the South Asian streak in 1999 and starred in the Oscar-nominated documentary “Spellbound”

Methods

How to raise a winner

The nonprofit North South Foundation is one breeding ground for winners. Thousands of young spellers compete in foundation contests, hoping to advance to U.S. championships.

All of the National Spelling Bee champions since 2008 are Foundation veterans, Chitturi said.

“It's a platform. Early on, we try to encourage parents and say, ‘Start early. Start in first grade.’ Then slowly move up the ladder — the ladder of excellence,” said Chitturi.

The foundation has similar contests in essay writing, mathematics, geography and other fields. A week before the spelling bee, another North South Foundation product, Akhil Rekulapelli, of Ashburn, Virginia, won the $50,000 top prize at the National Geographic Bee.

1 Kimye wedding wows (part 2)

Kim Kardashian posted this pic on her Instagram. Seems a little far away to be a selfie. / INSTAGRAM

Kim Kardashian's wedding gown has been revealed, and it's nothing short of incredible.

The Givenchy Haute Couture gown, designed by the house's creative director Riccardo Tisci, was everything it was rumored to be. Kim's curves were hugged in gorgeous hand-made lacework with sheer cutouts on her sides, down her arms and her back, only covered up by a long, silk veil.

Kim Instagrammed two pictures Tuesday morning — one of she and new husband Kanye West walking back down the aisle and another of the newlyweds kissing in front of a wall of white and gold flowers.

Her hair was simple — with a touch of wave, cascading down her back. So was her bouquet, as not to distract from the custom dress. She completed her look with Lorraine Schwartz jewelry.

The two were wed in Florence, Italy, on May 24 at Forte di Belvedere. Sources have confirmed that they're honeymooning in Ireland at Castlemartyr Resort in East Cork.

2 'Friends' aren't friends?

It's like they're stuck in second gear. / GETTY IMAGES

Jennifer Aniston and her former "Friends" co-star Courteney Cox are reportedly not such good friends in real life at the moment, as Aniston has gotten tired of Cox constantly telling her to get pregnant, according to Radar Online. "Courteney has been pushing Jen to get pregnant for years. She's given Jen non-stop baby and pregnancy advice, and Jen is sick of it," a source says, adding that Aniston has been opting to spend her time with talk-show host Chelsea Handler instead. "She doesn't want a friend who's a total know-it-all. She'd much prefer to spend her time with someone like Chelsea, who would never tell her what she should or shouldn't do." And all that time with Handler isn't helping the rift with Cox: "Courteney can't stand Chelsea. Courteney thinks she's loud and crass, while Jen thinks Courteney is taking things too seriously and is acting like a jealous teenager. It's gotten to the point where neither one of them wants to make the effort to keep the friendship going," the source explains. "It's really sad, but the friendship has basically evaporated." # 2 CULTURE

Talking point

Jenner needs to let it go

Not all Kardashian-related romances work out like Kanye and Kim. While Harry Styles and Kendall Jenner's brief romance has been over for months, Jenner reportedly "just can't get him out of her head" and hasn't stopped calling the One Direction star "despite their romance fizzling out months ago," according to Star magazine. "Now Kendall desperately wants him back. She loved the attention dating Harry gave her, plus she really fell for him big time," a source says. "Kendall really opened up to him and he did nothing but use her."

Talking point

Culkin's band booed off stage

It was a "Blues Brothers" moment for actor Macaulay Culkin and his band Pizza

Underground on Sunday at the Dot to Dot Festival in Nottingham, England, when fans turned on the comedy cover group by booing them and throwing beer onstage, but not before they performed a cover of Lou Reed's "Perfect Day," calling it "Pizza Day."

Culkin's band covers Velvet Underground and Lou

Reed songs, but changes the lyrics around to be about pizza. Stay tuned for the Joaquin Phoenix-style rockumentary next year. Right?

Bad to the bone

Interview. Peter Dinklage insists none of the bad guys he plays, even in "X-Men," are villains.

Peter Dinklage is the main baddie in "X-Men: Days of Future Past," playing Dr. Bolivar Trask, a corporate type who wants to design robots to hunt and kill mutants, whom he perceives as too dangerous to be living among humans. But Dinklage doesn't like the term "villain" applied to his characters.

"I always say the highfalutin actor thing of not judging your villain, not seeing him as a villain," Dinklage says. "He really believes he's doing the right thing. He wants to save humankind, worldwide, at the time of the Vietnam War, one of the worst wars there was — although I guess they're all bad wars."

But good intentions, however misguided, run up against less good ones. "He's also a capitalist. Those are the guys I don't trust: war profiteers. His containers [with the robots] have his logo on them. The guys screaming in a tree in Central Park, you get that as a New Yorker. But I don't get the guys down on Wall Street, bleeding people for a living."

Dinklage's character gets to hobnob with another bad guy of the 20th century. The film has Trask pitch his robots to

Richard Nixon, played by Mark Camacho. "There's a fine line where you can easily slip into comedic territory. You can get Rich Little with it," Dinklage says. "Mark certainly didn't do that."

Dinklage even says he has a kind of history with Nixon: "My mother was an elementary school-teacher for 35 years, and she taught at Nixon's school in New Jersey. I was raised a liberal Democrat, and she was protesting Nixon when he was in office. And yet we have a picture of my mother and President Nixon shaking hands."

Still Bond to us

Interview.

Pierce Brosnan is OK with poking fun at his previous film roles in his latest, "The Love Punch."

Pierce Brosnan isn't afraid to let himself or his age — or his time playing James Bond and Thomas Crowne — be the butt of a good joke. Plus, going for those laughs opposite Emma Thompson doesn't hurt. Brosnan and Thompson play bickering exes in writer/director Joel Hopkins' "The Love Punch," about an ordinary couple who get carried away with a jewel heist as revenge against the callous French banker who tanked their retirement fund.

It's hard to believe this is the first time you've teamed up with Emma Thompson. How was it working with her?

Oh, it was out-of-the-box great. Such a memorable summer it was. We hit the ground running Day 1, Scene 1, like we'd been working together forever. We'd wanted to work with each other for many years. There's just a real fondness for each other, and from my point of view, she's just such a gifted lady — beautiful, gifted, kind, gracious, affable. If she was here I wouldn't get a word in edgewise. She is just wildly entertaining.

This film sneaks in some fun nods toward your time as James Bond and

"I certainly got the jokes within the jokes," says Brosnan of the James Bond references in "The Love Punch." / GETTY IMAGES

Playing for laughs

How do you get the right tone for a screwball comedy like this?

It has to start with sincerity and honesty and a good story. It has to be founded within the truthfulness of character and storytelling so that you can then go off the rails but always come back to it. And in this case, this man is middle-aged, divorced, playing the field with women that are too young for him — that man-boy type mentality. There was a good, strong foundation in that. So for me it was always that, and then ... wet suits. [Laughs]

other previous work.

I certainly got the jokes within the jokes — dressing up in a wet suit, scaling a rubber mountain, stealing a diamond. Of course. If not now, when? [Laughs] Joel and I had talked often about this kind of humor and this kind of film. So all of the ingredients were just ripe for the doing.

It is odd, though, to see Timothy Spall in a wet suit.

It's quite a sight to behold. They gave him the wrong sized wet suit. They had to slit it up the back — you can actually see it in the film if you freeze it. [Laughs] Poor Timothy, he was miserable. And they gave him a three-ply, and it was a summer's day. It was so hot.

The locations did seem fairly pleasant.

Bliss, utter joy. It started in the South of France at the Carlton Hotel. I woke up, it was a gorgeous morning, I fed the seagulls that came to my little balcony suite that I had at the top of the hotel. I went down, and we all met each other and we started the play. They had lovely French lunches where there's wine — they actually sat us out front on the Croisette. Then we went back to work and continued our day, and that's how the shoot went. So it was very civilized, very otherworldly romantic. I mean, it's a retro-type film and a retro-type shoot, really.

HOLD YOUR BREATH AND GO UNDER AGAIN WITH 'ZISSOU'

'The Life Aquatic with Steve Zissou'

The Criterion Collection $39.95

A decade ago "The Life Aquatic with Steve Zissou" was Wes Anderson's first boondoggle — a costly Christmas Day release that turned out to be his most dense and inaccessible film to date. Such films don't offer instant gratification but rather require time to sit. Upon deeper reflection and repeat viewings, it's still not his most enjoyable film — that would be his most recent, "The Grand Budapest Hotel" — but it's possibly his most thoughtful. It sneaks up on you.

Bill Murray seeks a little help from his friends in "The Life Aquatic with Steve Zissou." / THE CRITERION COLLECTION

Bill Murray had played quiet depressives in "Rushmore" and "The Royal Tenenbaums." As Steve Zissou, a Jacques Cousteau-style populist marine biologist, he's more animated. He's still depressed: His best friend (Seymour Cassel) has been eaten by a "jaguar shark," and he's also being eaten away by fears of obsolescence. His best days, he fears, are behind him.

Throughout the film Anderson plays with manufactured worlds (obvious sets, matching costumes, invented aquatic life forms) running against reality. The film has pirates and grand ocean voyages, but the pirates are the real, unromanticized kind, and the funds to sail are always on the verge of running out. It's telling that throughout Anderson's costliest film is a constant worry about money.

Anderson is often criticized for disappearing into his own worlds. But his films are about exploring the idea of how we create realities for ourselves to stave off the pain of real life. "The Life Aquatic" is just the one that puts this front and center.

Duke redux

'Red River'

Of Howard Hawks' Westerns starring John Wayne, "Rio Bravo" tends to get the most love, but "Red River" might be the deeper film. It's a snaky cattle drive picture that quietly explores friendship and loyalty and features one of Wayne's more intimidating performances.

The sunny side

Between the sheets. Give your bed a summer wardrobe swap.

Odds and ends

Pillows

When it comes to pillows, Shieh suggests an odd approach: "I like to follow the 'odd number rule,' which removes symmetry and is more pleasing to the eye.

"Combining large repeated patterns with textures or smaller patterns can not only make a room appear larger but can also add character to the bedroom," she says. Pictured right is Crane & Canopy's Piper Blue collection. $30-$149, www.craneandcanopy.com

Soft blues can give your bedroom a beachy vibe. / CRANE & CANOPY

There's nothing like waking up to a beautiful summer day while swathed in cool, crisp, daisy-fresh bedding. Unfortunately, not just any set of sheets is going to do the trick. Selecting linens is like selecting anything you invite into your bed: If you just pick the prettiest pattern and fall for slick packaging, you're in for a morning of sweaty regret.

We hit up designer Karin Shieh — co-founder of Crane & Canopy bedding — for some tips on waking up on the right side of the bed this summer.

Fabric matters

"Linen, jersey and 100 percent cotton are all lovely fabrics for warm summer nights," says Shieh. "At the end of the day, it all comes down to personal preference. While linen and jersey both breathe and insulate well, they have some disadvantages. Linen is difficult to iron and wash, wrinkles easily and is not as soft. Jersey wears out quickly, stretches out and retains body odors." What you should never bed: polyester or polyester-cotton blends, which get sweaty and stick to your skin.

By the numbers

"Thread count does matter, but only up to 430," says Shieh.

Be skeptical of thread count

Once the gold standard for sheets, "thread count" is now a suspect buzz phrase on a par with "all-natural" and "eco-friendly." "In recent years, it has become a more meaningless marketing claim," says Shieh. "Thread count does matter, but only up to 430. With higher thread count, you get finer threads, which results in a softer and smoother fabric. After around 430, additional thread count can only be achieved through 'creative' manufacturing methods — which do not add to a higher quality product."

Throw pillows and miscellaneous frills not your thing? You can't get cooler or crisper than the Hugo Boss classic bedding collection. $138-$600, www.bloomingdales.com

You might need a full-time maid to maintain this crisp, designer look. / HUGO BOSS

"There is nothing as crisp or classic as the all-white bed. But for the warmer months, if you aren't already beach- or lake-side, choose a color or pattern that sets the tone for summer," suggests Shieh. "Colors such as Newport blues, chic yellows and seafoam green bring an element of happiness that contrasts with the summer heat."

SUMMER BLOCKBUSTERS FOR THE GAMING CROWD

It used to be that summer was for the biggest movies and fall was for the biggest video games. This arrangement was rock-solid and immutable. Times change, my ever-burgeoning beer gut likes to tell me. The next "Star Wars" is coming out in winter, and blockbuster video games now come out during the summer. Life is confusing.

'Mario Kart 8'

System: Wii U
Maker: Nintendo

Ah, the glorious splendor of four-player "Mario Kart." Is there anything better? When you're an innocent kid, it goes great with a glass of milk. When you're a cynical, beaten-down adult, it goes great with a beer or 20. "Mario Kart" is the universal equalizer and now it's back, but is the new installment any good?

The latest installment of "Mario Kart" may be the best one ever, at least in this writer's humble opinion. / PROVIDED

Duh. Of course it's good. It might even be the very best "Mario Kart" ever made. It plays faster than ever, with courses exploring an anti-gravity mechanic that never overstays its welcome. The graphics are utterly stunning, with a vibrancy and color that must be seen on a large HDTV. There's even a great online component. The only letdown is that the battle mode offers up no original courses.

'Watch Dogs'

System: Every console (PS4 version reviewed)
Maker: Ubisoft

It was only a matter of time before gaming tried to tackle the surveillance state. Edward Snowden, take heart: "Watch Dogs" lets you play in an information-soaked dystopia where privacy is about as antiquated a notion as the milkman or a boob-free episode of "Game of Thrones."

"Watch Dogs," the rare AAA title that isn't a sequel or spin-off, is a new take on the "Grand Theft Auto"-style open world playground. You play as a Chicago-based hacker in the near future and — due to your mad hax0r skills — are able to spy on everyone around you, control traffic lights and cause all manner of chaos. At its heart, the single-player component isn't too far removed from GTA, but the additional control you are provided over the city is a welcome addition. The only downsides are some slightly derivative online modes.

NOTICE OF FRANCHISE AND CONCESSION REVIEW COMMITTEE PUBLIC HEARING ON AGENCY ANNUAL CONCESSION PLANS

Notice of a Franchise and Concession Review Committee (FCRC) Public Hearing on Agency Annual Concession Plans for Fiscal Year 2015 pursuant to Section 1-10 of the Concession Rules of the City of New York (Concession Rules), to be held on June 9, 2014, commencing at 2:30PM, and located at 22 Reade Street, Barish Conference Room, Manhattan. At this hearing, the FCRC will further solicit comments about the provisions of the Concession Rules from the vendor community, civic groups and the public at large. The FCRC shall consider the issues raised at the Public Hearing in accordance with the procedures set forth in the Charter under the City Administrative Procedure Act.

The following agencies submitted an Annual Concession Plan for Fiscal Year 2015: the Department of Parks and Recreation, the Department of Citywide Administration Services, the Department of Transportation, the Department of Corrections, the Department of Sanitation, the New York Police Department, the Department of Housing Preservation and Development, the Department of Homeless Services, the Department of Environmental Protection, the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, the Department of Records and Information Services, the New York City Office of Chief Medical Examiner, the New York City Economic Development Corporation on behalf of the Department of Small Business Services, and NYC & Company on behalf of the Department of Small Business Services.

The portfolio of Agency Annual Concession Plans covers significant and non-significant concessions expiring, continuing and anticipated for solicitation or initiation in Fiscal Year 2015. Furthermore, the portfolio covers, inter alia:

- Department of Parks and Recreation: mobile food units, food service facilities, golf courses, driving ranges, marinas, tennis professionals, Christmas trees, parking lots, markets, concerts, newsstands, stables, gas stations, amusement venues, ice skating rinks, carousels, ferry services, bike rentals, circus, sailboat rentals, souvenirs and gifts.
- Department of Citywide Administrative Services: maritime and non-maritime occupancy permits.
- Department of Transportation: food kiosks, vending machines, pedestrian plazas, food courts.
- Department of Corrections: food services, mobile food units, vending machines.
- Department of Sanitation: advertising.
- New York City Police Department: vending machines and cafeteria.
- Department of Housing Preservation and Development: vending machines, café.
- Department of Homeless Services: athletic facilities.
- Department of Environmental Protection: gas purification.
- Department of Health and Mental Hygiene: drug discount card program.
- Department of Records and Information Services: publication of record collections.
- New York City Office of the Chief Medical Examiner: DNA swab kit.
- New York City Economic Development Corporation on behalf of the Department of Small Business Service: parking lots, maritime and non-maritime occupancy permits.
- NYC & Company on behalf of the Department of Small Business Services: marketing, advertising, intellectual property & trademark merchandising.

Another reason to drink red wine

Besides being the main ingredient in the summer party staple sangria, red wine could also protect your teeth. A study in the Journal of Agricultural and Food Chemistry found that red wine, as well as grapeseed extract (good news for you nondrinkers), disrupted harmful colonies of bacteria responsible for cavities and other dental diseases. Brushing and fluoride have limited effects on these germs, but the wine and extracts, whether via booze or not, effectively killed them.

ChaiseFitness opens new studio

Get "reinvented" at ChaiseFitness's new Upper East Side location, which opened this month at 1204 Lexington Ave. after beginning two years ago in the Flatiron district. Classes alternate between the Reinvention Chair, a futuristic-looking stool, and hand-held bungee cords suspended from the ceiling to blend Pilates, ballet and aerobics. The resistance cords help develop long and lean muscles, improving balance and posture. Group and private sessions are available; visit www.chaisefitness.com for more information.

Reset your body

From June 2-6, organic food delivery service Sakara Life is partnering with modelFit to offer a five-day program designed to cleanse and rejuvenate your body. Sakara will provide five days' worth of balanced seasonal, organic meals designed to "spring clean from the inside out." Put that new energy to use during five classes at SoHo's modelFit studio, the first of which will end with a "community gathering" to set your goals for the coming week. $559, www.sakara-life.com.

How to ## Save a life

National CPR Awareness Week begins on June 1, and the American Heart Association is reminding people that Hands-Only CPR can save lives. To help a teen or adult who's suddenly collapsed, first call 911, then place the heel of your hand in the center of his or her chest and put your other hand on top, lacing your fingers together, and push down hard and fast. The compressions need to be performed at about 100 beats per minute, which is coincidentally the rhythm of the Bee Gees song "Stayin' Alive," until paramedics arrive. EVA KIS

Summer just wouldn't be as sweet without satisfying treats. But during beach season, you might feel more guilty for indulging when it's time to put on your bathing suit. And who wants to turn on the oven when it's already blazing outside? These slimming no-bake options are packed with flavor and super-healthy — and there's zero guilty aftermath. Enjoy!

Cinnamon cheesecake fondue

Have a craving for New York-style cheesecake but don't want to heat up your kitchen or splurge on a disastrous 1,000-plus-calorie slice? Give this version a shot: Combine 4 ounces of low-fat cream cheese (room temperature), ¾ cup nonfat sour cream, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon and ¼ teaspoon vanilla extract. Whisk well, until completely smooth, then refrigerate for 30 minutes before serving. Enjoy with fresh-cut fruit. This recipe makes four portions at just 129 calories each.

Chocolate dream milkshake

Slurp a chocolate shake at the ice cream parlor, and it will cost you at least 650 calories. Here's a skinny version that you can make at home: In a blender, toss in ½ cup unsweetened vanilla almond milk, ¾ cup light chocolate ice cream, half a ripe banana and 1 teaspoon unsweetened cocoa powder. Swirl it up until it's smooth and frothy, then top with a squirt of all-natural aerated whipped cream. All this for just 230 calories!

Frozen fruit kebabs

These "kebabs" take advantage of naturally sweet seasonal fruit, and I'll admit that this dessert is so easy, it's almost shameful to call it a recipe. Simply cut watermelon into 1-inch cubes, then put on a skewer, alternating them with purple grapes. Next, pop in the freezer for about an hour, and enjoy nature's nutrient-packed "popsicle."

Horoscope

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. Be resolute in showing your friends and family what is expected of them and what you will do in return.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. You might not be getting the whole picture. Don't make a decision until all the information is available; get the facts first. A hasty choice could cost you.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. You may see yourself heading toward adopting a different lifestyle. Find out all you can about the changes you are considering.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. Support will be yours, with people freely offering assistance that will enable you to reach your goals.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21. The creativity that has benefited your financial situation can be put to good use helping others. Offer your assistance, but be wary of taking on too many ventures at once.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. Partnerships will take a lot of your energy. Don't act in haste. It will require patience on your part to make things happen.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan. 20. Go over your projects with a fine-toothed comb before you present what you have to offer. You risk failure if you let some careless mistake slip through.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb. 18. Try brainstorming with friends who share your concerns. A profitable venture can be yours if you're able to sell your plan.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. Make sure that you're prepared for anything. You may have to make some adjustments to your original plans.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20. You will be able to take advantage of any situation. Friends and colleagues will be impressed by your abilities, and you will gain respect and support.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21. Your intuition is very sharp. Have faith in what you do. Stick to your plan, and don't be led astray by false promises. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Snoopy for president

Re: 'Elect Clinton for historical significance' (Metro, May 27) Letter writer Reba Shimansky makes powerful and cogent arguments for electing, to the highest office in the land, Snoopy. He has appeared in newspapers, magazines, books and television; he is internationally recognized; and he has widespread appeal. He even has military experience! To paraphrase Ms. Shimansky's circular reasoning: "If Snoopy were elected president, it would be a milestone in U.S. election history because electing the first canine president and breaking through that doggie-door would be historic." Snoopy's leadership abilities far exceed Hillary [Clinton's].

Cut to the core problem

Re: 'Victim's father blames government "idiots" as town mourns killings' (Metro, May 27) While what befell Christopher Michael-Martinez is indeed tragic, I question his father's claim that its proximate cause was the NRA or the "failure" of Congress. California is ranked by the Brady Campaign as having the strictest gun laws in the nation. Further, half of the victims were stabbed to death. What was Congress supposed to do? Institute a five-day waiting period to buy a kitchen knife?

Jeter leads voting at shortstop

It's no surprise Derek Jeter will get one more round at the Midsummer Classic, but it might be in a starting role. MLB released the initial All-Star voting Tuesday and Jeter leads AL shortstops and is third overall, behind Mike Trout and Jose Bautista. Jacoby Ellsbury is currently third among all outfielders.

Blueshirts lose in wild Game 5 to set up return

NHL playoffs. The Canadiens pulled back one game, but the Rangers still lead the series 3-2 heading home.

After five total goals and a trip to the bench for Henrik Lundqvist, the game had just begun.

In the end, despite a furious Rangers comeback, the Canadiens pulled out a 7-4 win in Game 5 of the Eastern Conference finals to force a trip back to Madison Square Garden.

The Rangers were trying to close out their first trip to the Stanley Cup Final 20 years to the day after Stephane Matteau famously defeated the Devils and set up the team's last title.

Instead, the Canadiens prolonged their stay in the postseason thanks to a scoring barrage which never let up regardless of who was in net for the Rangers.

The night started with a bad omen as Chris Kreider was called for a tripping penalty on P.K. Subban 22 seconds into the game, setting up a goal by Alex Galchenyuk, who redirected a Subban slapshot into net.

Derek Stepan, who skated with a facemask in his first action since suffering a broken jaw in

Lundqvist made 15 saves on 19 shots, while his replacement Cam Talbot allowed two goals on eight shots. / GETTY IMAGES

What went wrong ...

1 Can't all go right

Lundqvist has been unbelievable in the playoffs, but he can't be perfect. The former Vezina Trophy winner was benched in the second period. In the end, the Rangers hope it just amounts to a much-needed half game of rest.

2 Penalty problems

The Rangers were rightly praised for killing seven of eight power plays in Game 4. But they said they needed to clean up the penalties. Instead, they committed eight penalties in Game 5.

3 Where's St. Louis?

For the first time all playoffs, Martin St. Louis was a no-show. He finished with zero shots on goal in 18:28.

Game 3, tied it up at 1-1 at 10:44. It was the first of two goals for Stepan.

Stepan's second goal came in a frenetic second period when the Canadiens jumped out to a 4-1 lead on goals by Max Pacioretty and Rene Bourque. Lundqvist was pulled at the next stoppage, but the Rangers immediately answered with three straight goals to tie it up at 4-4.

Bourque scored the game-winner at 15:10 in the second period to close out a six-goal period.

Bourque completed the hat trick 6:33 into the third period, while David Desharnais put in an empty netter for the final margin.

Game 6 will be Thursday night at the Garden at 8 p.m.

Quinton Coples Q&A: Slimmer, faster, ready

Quinton Coples knows he has to shed the label of potential and become a bona fide star on this Jets defense.

Much was expected of Coples, a former first-round pick who head coach Rex Ryan touted as a key addition following the 2012 NFL draft. But after a rookie season spent adjusting to the 3-4 defense — Coples played end in a 4-3 at North Carolina — he went through another position change in 2013.

Coples found out he would be moved to outside linebacker "right before minicamp" last season after he put on size to play end.

But Coples is ready for what he hopes will finally be a season of stability.

A slimmer Coples sat down for an interview with Metro New York

COPLES HAD 4 1/2 SACKS IN 2013, BUT 3 1/2 WERE IN THE FINAL FIVE WEEKS.

GETTY IMAGES

following the start of organized team activities.

Will you play at outside linebacker this year exclusively or some combination with defensive end?

It can be anything, basically a hybrid. I will be anywhere from zero [lined up over center] to linebacker. I can be placed anywhere. Safety, anything. [laughing] I'll just let you see it.

You spent last offseason

thinking you would return to the defensive line. How has an offseason knowing your role helped?

Tremendously. That's what I've been working on, being an outside linebacker. [I am] working on my drops, working on my coverage. I dropped 15 pounds. I'm faster too. Anytime you lose weight, you get faster. I think I'm in better shape for that role, for all the versatility it asks for.
